ABOUT THE ARTIST

Don Cronin studied sculpture to degree level at the Crawford College of Art and Design, graduating in 1994 having previously completed a BA in Philosophy at UCC. Now based in his studio near Innishannon, Co. Cork, Don divides his time between the public art field and a more intimate studio practice.

County Councils including Cork, Kerry, Mayo, Leitrim, Tipperary and Limerick have commissioned work from the artist under the Per Cent for Art Scheme. His work also features in several public and private collections in the USA, France, United Kingdom and Ireland, including those of UCC, UCG, Mr Dermot Desmond at the IFSC and The Civic Art Collection of San Francisco. Recent awards include a Cork County Arts Bursary Award and Ballinglen Arts Foundation Residency Award. In 2014, Don exhibited as an invited artist at the RHA Annual Exhibition.

'OBLIQUE REVISIONS'

Much of Cronin's work contains echoes of urban structure and a concern with the aesthetics of the engineered element (the 'God in the Machine') which in most recent work overlies an organic substrate like human interventions in the landscape. The body of work presented here is the result of a sustained approach to the process of making, where works are produced slowly through a series of intuitive modifications and revisions. In a bid to avoid the predictable, seemingly resolved elements are repeatedly subject to dissection, reconstruction and manipulation into less obvious though essentially balanced formats. This deliberate process is what characterises Cronin's compositions.

Artistic Alliance aims to align itself closely to artists in the production of exhibitions. We are principally associated with Irish-based artists but have actively sought to work with overseas painters and sculptors. Our exhibitions take place at a variety of locations around Ireland. These include Cork City, Dublin, Ballymaloe House and Farm (Shanagarry, Co Cork) and Mount Juliet Estate (Thomastown, Co Kilkenny). Over the years we have developed a good working relationship with key partners. Their skills and the trust that we have in them are key to our ambitions.
